In these challenging economic times, schools face a variety of financial and academic pressures.

Strong community support, however, continues to play a major role in the success of our schools and students.

Your district needs ways to share student accomplishments, gain valuable community input, and shape public opinion.

The Pennsylvania School Public Relations Association, also known as PenSPRA, can help.

PenSPRA offers its members a variety of support services, including:

- Free regional workshops
- The PenSPRA directory: help and information are just a phone call away!
- The annual PenSPRA Symposium, held every April
- The PenSPRA Publications Contest: a chance to receive feedback and awards for your projects
- The bi-monthly PenSPRA e-newsletter: timely updates about PR topics of interest
- A library of resources available free-of-charge to members
- Access to "Members Only" section of the PenSPRA website: includes a PA Media Contact list and the online PenSPRA directory

Pennsylvania School Public Relations Association

Membership Information

PenSPRA currently has over 180 members across the state. PenSPRA is divided into two regions, East and West. Each region has Program Chairpersons who plan and facilitate several workshops a year. Regional workshops allow for more people to participate as travel is not an issue and allows you to build relationships with peers in your area.

Our membership consists of School Public Relations Professionals, Superintendents, Principals, and school board members as well as other staff members who may be responsible for public relations in their organization.

If you would like additional information or have questions about membership, visit www.penspra.org.
